MARINE BIOLOGY

Our resident Marine Biologist offers unsurpassable insight into the incredible Biosphere Reserve in which Finolhu is located. All marine biologist-led activities are designed to help further the understanding of some of the key features of this complex eco-system, allowing you to appreciate the reasons why your choice of destination is so unique, and also why it's crucial that we protect it. Our marine biology program offers a holistic approach to marine knowledge with a strong focus on citizen science and an open sharing platform, so that various organizations such as Marine Megafauna™, Parley™, One Drop Foundation™, Seakeepers Society™, and Ports of Cause™ can contribute and partake in our conservation efforts. This is the perfect complement to our “Visiting Heroes”, whom we host regularly at Finolhu. This all ties in to the overall sustainability and conservation efforts of the resort management under EarthCheck™.

Our guests can learn about the ocean, pursue an adventure, experience the coral reef and participate in ongoing research to personally make a difference to our fragile environment. We currently contribute to MantaMatcher, an online global database revolutionizing global research on these threatened rays by means of successful and meaningful public involvement. Our Manta Ray excursion involves an in-depth briefing about these majestic animals and an introduction on how to contribute to our ongoing manta ID database.

Another main focus of the marine biology program is turtles. We currently collaborate with TurtleWatch™ and the Olive Ridley Project™, ongoing open platforms focused on turtle research across the Maldives. We offer the opportunity for you to join our Marine Biologist on an exciting adventure to swim with these ancient, fascinating reptiles in their natural environment at a nearby reef. By sharing your photos with us, you will contribute to our ever-growing database of turtles, which is in turn shared with TurtleWatch™.

For Children

Children can also enjoy scuba diving with us: it's fun, safe, exciting, educational, and a wonderful activity to share as a family. From the first tentative breaths with a regulator in the pool to the Bubblemaker experience in the lagoon, kids will experience programs run by SSI or PADI professionals using child-size equipment in a carefully controlled environment. If you or your children are nervous, we can start off with a simple snorkel or swimming experience and go from there. Our instructors are all extremely patient, so both you and your children will feel totally at ease.

SASY (Supplied Air Snorkeling for Youths)

Dive regulations require that only children over 8 years of age may dive up to a depth of 2 metres (6.5 feet). The SASY program is designed so that little ones aged 5 to 7 can gain the experience of breathing through full scuba gear without diving below the surface of the water; just the face touches the water. Each participant will be outfitted with an inflatable vest and full diving equipment, including a BCD, regulator and oxygen tank. Our dive instructors will guide them on a snorkel through our coral gardens, close to shore.

FREEDIVING

What is Freediving, you ask? This form of diving, sometimes known as apnea, consists of submerging without the assistance of external air, and has an ancient heritage. It's the very same way that humans have dived underwater for millennia, long before the invention of scuba. For thousands of years, Freediving was used for gathering food and other resources as pearls, sponges and corals. In the 60s, Freediving pioneers (such as Enzo Maiorca, Bob Croft and Jacques Mayol) started competing against each other on depth and duration, and this marked the beginning of modern Freediving. Freediving has lot of benefits and promotes health, fitness and wellbeing. It allows you to come closer to marine life, gliding weightlessly beside to the reef without scaring creatures away with your bubbles. But, that aside, Freediving is also coveted for its internal experience; a means of challenging and learning about your body.

JACQUES MAYOL
